Get your Real Estate broker license

Rolf W. Seebach

Passing your Real Estate agent license was a big step, but obtaining your Real Estate broker license is an even bigger one, and it all starts with passing your Real Estate broker state exam, one of the hardest exams you will ever take. However, with the Amelox College Tutor program, you will benefit from methods of learning online that have helped thousands of people achieve their educational dreams.

When you want to go to the top of the Real Estate field, there is no better way to do it than to have a Real Estate broker license. With this license, you will be at the top of your field, but getting that license is a different story altogether. If you thought getting a Real Estate agent license was tough, with only a 25 to 35 percent pass rate, the broker license is even tougher because a) there are more questions, and b) the questions are harder, particularly the math section.

The College Tutor provides ample math problems for acreage, finance, and appraisals. Every problem is worked out systematically for the student to follow along. Nobody is left hanging with a cryptic 4B as the "answer" somewhere in the back of a book. A short math refresher is also presented for computing percentages in the correct way.

Making your broker license entails a lot of studying in addition to your regular duties as a Real Estate agent, but do not let that turn you off. The truth is that with the excellent long-distance learning program from Amelox, you can learn what you need to know to pass that state exam on the first try.

The Real Estate broker license is one of the most sought after licenses for Real Estate agents in the country. Through fast-paced and time saving techniques of the online College Tutor program, you benefit from teacher-vetted material that will use your time well to help you learn the material quickly and easily.

Through hundreds of questions, a Readiness Meter, a comprehensive study guide, and as many sample Real Estate broker tests as you are willing to take, you will be ready to take the state exam and begin your new career as a leading Real Estate broker. Do not let your dreams fall short, and let the Amelox College Tutor get you where you want to be.

The Readiness Meter, which is part of the online package, helps you know when you have finished your Real Estate broker training and are ready to take the Real Estate broker exam.

With your previous experience as a licensed Real Estate agent, you will be able to move quickly through the questions at speeds of up to 200 questions per hour, helping you become quickly versed in how to handle every kind of question, from the easy to the exceedingly difficult.

After successfully completing a Final test, you are invited to print a professional Certificate of Accomplishment to hang in your office for customers to admire.

Once you are done with the online training, you are on your way to become a Real Estate broker, reaping the benefits of having your Real Estate broker license.

What might those benefits be? They include more customers with higher sales commission percentages, the ability to hire others to expand your territory, having your own sales office. Perhaps even a teaching position at a local community college with its potential for lucrative referrals from students. The sky is the limit when you have your Real Estate broker license, and the Amelox College Tutor can help you get there with its online training and the Real Estate broker sample tests that will challenge, and at the same time educate you.

To see how the College Tutor works, a live, interactive demo is available on the Internet for the look-and-feel. Try it out. There are no obligations, just register and go.

Now click on Real Estate broker license, select the state you are interested in, then sign up for the online tutor program. You will be glad you did.

Contact Amelox for more information on this excellent tutoring tool by clicking on the link above.

Amelox Corporation
PO Box 2134
Sunnyvale, CA 94087, USA
Amelox.org